

Jonas Grünke / Andrea Pešková / Christoph Gabriel (eds.)

Spanish as a second and third language

Approaching the linguistics-didactics interface

Contents

Jonas Grünke, Christoph Gabriel, and Andrea Pešková
Introduction	7
Cynthia Potvin
La enseñanza de un español auténtico: El caso de la variedad mexicana en Canadá	17
Philippa Adolf
Differential object marking in the L2 Spanish of L1 German speakers: A corpus-based analysis.....	39
Benjamin Meisnitzer and Christiane Neveling
Proceso de atenuación y partículas modales en la enseñanza del español en los países germanófonos	71
Brandon Goodale, Rajiv Rao, and Erwin Lares
The effects of a Spanish-language house on L2 phonology: A longitudinal study of Spanish /b d g/	91
Patricia Uhl
Writing, reading, and listening comprehension in Spanish and French as foreign languages: Gender as an intersectional effect	119
Johanna Stahnke, Laia Arnaus Gil, Julia Cadórniga Martínez, Amelia Jiménez-Gaspar, Elena Scalise, and Abira Sivakumar
Preverbal, postverbal and null subjects in Spanish: Comparing multilingual speaker groups and methods	147
Christian Koch
Linking Turkish and Kurdish with Spanish: Exploring the role of heritage languages in the Spanish classroom	177
Christoph Gabriel, Jonas Grünke, Licia López Pereyra, and Claudia Schlaak
Acquiring Spanish voiceless stops in a multilingual setting: An intervention study with German-Turkish bilinguals	207

Javier Caro Reina and Işık Akar

Exploring the potential of heritage Turkish for the acquisition of perfective and imperfective aspect in L3 Spanish 237

Lukas Eibensteiner

The acquisition of aspect in a Romance L3:
What can tense-aspect studies contribute to current L3 transfer models? 271